A Message from the Mayor:

Summer Beckons

Idon't know about you, but with the increase in daylight hours and the ability to be outdoors more, I experience a renewed spirit. Spring gives us the opportunity to have our doors and windows open, see our neighbors outside, barbeque, take walks, watch children playing outside, and in general to enjoy the outside as it comes alive with the sounds and squeals of joy.

As part of our summers, we, in Louisville, grew accustomed to the Fourth of July fireworks to celebrate of our nation's birthday. In 2010, we experienced the unexpected closure of Sam's Club and the corresponding loss of sales tax revenues. The decision was made to cancel the July 4th celebration for one year. From talking to many of our citizens, young, middle, and older, I know how much we, as a community, missed OUR celebration.

With that in mind and because of your willingness to pass a Use Tax, the July  $4^{th}$  fireworks are back!! The planning is well underway for an event for your enjoyment and a chance to celebrate with family, friends, and neighbors.

Sometimes we take community events for granted, and the absence of the July 4th celebration last year left a significant hole for us in Louisville. I know many of you understood the reasons for not having the celebration and were very supportive; however that doesn't mean we didn't miss it.

July 4th

The Fireworks are Back!!

Thank you Louisville voters! The passage of the Use Tax allowed us to bring back the fireworks. Join your friends and neighbors at the Coal Creek Golf Course for the 2011 July 4th fireworks. Bring your picnic, sit on the driving range, and enjoy the festivities.

- *Festivities begin at 6:00 PM
- *Music from the Boulder Concert Band
- *For the kids: balloon animals, face painting, & jumpy castles
- *Fireworks to launch at approximately 9:30 PM.

The golf course is located at 585 West Dillon Road. There is NO parking at the golf course. Free shuttle bus service provided from 6 - 11 PM from the Louisville Recreation Center and Home Depot parking lots.

Message from the Mayor

The City Council continues to be fiscally prudent and the reinstatement of the fireworks display should not be interpreted that Louisville's financial issues are in the rear view mirror. We have a very positive cash surplus and have not issued bonds since the library bonds were approved in 2003. In fact, in March our bond rating was improved by Standard and Poor's to an "AA." The empirical evidence is clear: Louisville's financial situation is very sound.

That said, it is imperative that we maintain a solid relationship with our business community and that we continue to trust one another. We have worked extremely hard to cultivate these relationships. Whether it be ConocoPhillips or a one person operation, these relationships are vital to the success of Louisville. To ensure economic progress we must partner with our business community. I know we can achieve this result without sacrificing the qualities that make Louisville great.

I am confident the events such as July 4th, the Street Faire, and the Taste of Louisville will make the Summer of 2011 not only memorable, but will instill in all of us the value of our community, which we should not take for granted.

Again, thank you for allowing me the honor of being the Mayor of Louisville!! See you at the SUMMER events.

The Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) will begin overlaying portions of U.S. 36 between the Wadsworth interchange and 88th Street in May.

change and 88th Street in May. The project should be complete by early September. The roadway condition in this portion of U.S. 36 is significantly deteriorated. The last time the pavement in this section was resurfaced was 1994 and CDOT has rated the roadway as Poor with a remaining surface life of zero years.

Construction will occur at night, one travel lane at a time, and all travel lanes will re-open in the morning. Please use caution during construction.

TIPS FOR CONSERVING WATER

Louisville has a semi-arid climate and multi-year droughts. Outdoor watering is approximately 55% of residential use. Smart irrigation can lead to a 30-80% water savings! Remember these tips for utilizing water wisely and have a great summer.

LAWN CARE

ONever water at 3 PM when high temperatures occur;

Water ONLY between 10 PM and 9 AM when it is less windy and less water evaporates (night watering does NOT encourage disease). Water evaporation at 60°F is 66% less than at 100°F!

OUse a timer, they are available for all sprinkler types;

OMow grass to 2.5" to 3" to shade roots and help hold moisture;

Maintain your sprinkler system: broken heads? sprayers turning properly? nozzles plugged? water hitting pavement?

©Calibrate sprinklers. Place containers (tuna fish cans) in your yard, measure water depth in cans in different areas. Then determine the time it takes to apply 1/4 - 1/2" water;

Water only when needed (when footprints in grass don't disappear in an hour).

GARDENING

Water only when needed, optimally every 2-7 days;

Water deeply/less frequently, it encourages deep root growth and drought tolerance;

©Convert to trickle/drip irrigation, it reduces water needs approximately 50%;

OMulch decreases soil temperature and soil's exposure to wind;

OPlant in blocks, it creates shade for roots and reduces evaporation.

Ways to Protect Local Waterways

Did you know that pollutants from everyday activities can be washed into storm drains, which lead directly to the nearest waterway? There are several ways that you can protect your local creeks, lakes, and ponds.

Litter:

Even the tiniest pieces of litter from cigarette butts, plastic bags, bottles, and paper can end up in our waterways if they are not properly disposed of or recycled.

You can help: Pick up litter and properly dispose of it in the trash or recycle bin.

Lawn and Garden:

When it rains, fertilizer can run off your lawn into streams, lakes and ponds through the storm drain system. You can help: 1) Avoid overwatering your yard. Use a soaker hose or drip irrigation system instead of a sprinkler. 2) Use pesticides and fertilizers sparingly.

Auto Care:

Washing your car and degreasing auto parts at home can send detergents and other contaminants into streams and lakes through the storm drain system.

You can help: 1) Use a commercial car wash that treats or recycles its wastewater, or wash your car in your yard so the water soaks into the ground. 2) Recycle vehicle maintenance products. For more information, call the Household Hazardous Waste Hotline at 303.441.4800.

Pet Care:

Pet waste can contain bacteria that are carried in rainwater and snowmelt – ending up untreated in Colorado's lakes, rivers, streams, and wetlands.

You can help: Keep a bag on your dog's leash at all times and scoop the poop.

Be a Spill Sleuth!

To report a spill, call the spill hotline at 303.441.4444.

For more information and to learn how you can get involved, please visit KeepItCleanPartnership.org, or call 303.441.1439.

KEEP COYOTES WILD

Coyotes have lived among us for decades, typically shying away from people and keeping to themselves.

Over time, urban coyotes have learned that people are not a threat to them and have become habituated to our presence. They share our trails, Open Spaces, and backyards.

Some have become so comfortable around people that they can be approached within a few feet.

Coming into close contact with a coyote can be an alarming experience. Research has shown that relocation and lethal controls are ineffective and costly as coyote populations rebound quickly after removal efforts. Aside from leashing our dogs and not feeding wildlife, what are we to do?

In an urban environment, hazing is the most effective way to move coyotes away from people and discourage undesirable behavior. Hazing uses deterrents to re-instill the coyote's natural fear of humans in a way that does not harm the animal, but teaches them to avoid us. Hazing techniques include directing noises at a coyote with an air horn, pop can shaker, or shouting, spraying with a water gun, or throwing small stones or golf balls. To be most successful, hazing should be performed by many different people using a variety of techniques. For this reason, the City encourages you to haze a coyote whenever it is within 100 feet of you.

The Open Space Division is recruiting volunteers for a coyote management team to help haze coyotes and distribute educational materials. To join, or to get more information, please contact Jim Krick at JimK@LouisvilleCO.gov or 303.335.4742.

LIBRARY & MUSEUM NEWS

SUMMER READING, JUNE 1 - JULY 31

With summer just around the corner, Summer Reading Programs will soon begin. This year we are offering online registration beginning Wednesday, May 25 at www.Louisville-Library.org. Once you have registered, you can check-in at the appropriate department service desk and receive the information packet for your program. As usual, our June kick-off event will be a Family Movie Night for all participants. Program details and schedules will be available on the Library web site and Facebook pages, as well as calendars and flyers available in the Library.

CHILDREN: ONE WORLD, MANY STORIES

For two months each summer, the Library is practically a circus of activity with special events, programs, and activities for kids of all ages. Always a favorite, Mr. Shine will be back this year. We'll also have some new programs including "Indiana Bones" and "Funny Fairy Tales."

TEENS: YOU ARE HERE

The teen program—open to students who are entering the 7th grade and above—lets teens explore different places and cultures within themselves, the world, and time and space.

But it's not just about reading this summer—the Library is also your entertainment center! The Loft will feature lots of special activities for teens including an origami workshop, a Bollywood and mehndi (henna tattooing) event, a letterboxing scavenger hunt, and a rubber duck decorating contest. We'll also have game nights, movie showings, and interactive displays.

Adults: Novel Destinations

Summer is a time for travel, whether it's a dream vacation, being a tourist in your own city or state, or simply enjoying some armchair travel. We'll focus on reading or listening to novels from the various regions of the U.S. We're scheduling special evening programs, which will focus on our own beautiful and historic state—listen to a storyteller's tales about the Northern Arapaho and early pioneers who figured in the history of Rocky Mountain National Park, and join the Director of the Buffalo Bill Museum for his lively presentation and historic photos of this iconic American. We'll also have a program about storing and organizing your digital photos.

ON THE SAME PAGE

What if everybody in your community read the same book at the same time? You could talk about it over breakfast, compare notes after work, go to a program related to the book's themes in the evening. If that's appealing, you'll get your chance soon as Louisville, Superior, and Lafayette join forces for the first-ever 'On The Same Page' program. The Louisville and Lafayette libraries will have lots of copies of the book to read, whether in print, on CD, or downloadable, as well as book club sets. There will be one title for adults and another for kids on related topics to make this a family affair.

What's the book? We'll announce the title in early June, so that everyone has time to read it before our programming begins. In the meantime, we can tell you that from the beginning of September through mid-October we're planning musical events, a photo display, kids' games, author appearances, and book discussion groups, all related to events in the books.

This six-week-long celebration is being funded by Colorado Humanities, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Louisville Public Library Foundation, the Town of Superior, and the Lafayette Friends of the Library Foundation.
